Dinner Time Questions

[happy new year edition]

Hello!

Dinner time in January is a great time to figure out what STORY your family really wants to be living together. Make it a time to have discussions that challenge your family to dream big, listen to each other, and figure out how to make powerful familyness happen.

Print out these cards on heavy weight paper (cardstock is great) cut them into fours, put them in a little box, and keep them near your table. Ask a couple of questions each night.

Some nights you may only get to one question because of the conversation that it will spark. That's the idea, to start a meaningful conversation. When that happens, it feels like a magical evening.

Please make sure and come back to this blog post and share your experiences. I'd love to hear about them!

xoxo,
Davina
